

Brette Andrews
Manager, Human Capital

Brette Andrews, a Cusper (caught between Generation X and Millennials), brings a unique perspective to the workplace by bridging the gap between generations. In addition, being raised by Baby Boomers, Andrews is able to influence across multiple generations.

Andrews joined enVista in April of 2008 as Human Capital Manager. With five years of Human Resources experience, Andrews is an Appreciative Inquiry Practitioner and specializes in Generational Training and Human Capital Consulting.

Prior to enVista, Andrews served as a Corporate Recruiter for Acres Group, a Human Resources Specialist for Indiana Packers, and Business Coordinator for AFRL and NASA Project through the Texas A&M University AggieSat Lab. She is currently a member of the Society of Human Resources Management (SHRM) and IndySHRM.

Andrews received her B.B.A. from the Mays School of Business at Texas A&M University.

Andrews is world-traveled having visited 10 countries before the age of 21, but has never been to Canada or Mexico. However, she and her husband, Josh, are planning a trip to Canada in fall 2010 to be a step closer to closing the North American gap.
