

Jeff Brantley

Senior Vice President, Political Affairs and Foundation

Jeff has extensive experience in political campaign management, issue advocacy, government relations, research, trade associations and communications. He is responsible for the Chamber's non-partisan political action program, Indiana Business for Responsive Government, as well as oversight for the Indiana Chamber Foundation.

Jeff previously operated Proponent Consulting, LLC, a public affairs, political action and communications firm. He was also executive director of the Hoosiers for Economic Growth and School Choice Indiana.

Other professional highlights include director of governmental affairs for Christel DeHaan Enterprises, executive director of the Coalition for Positive Progress, field staff for the National Right to Work Committee and founder of the Indiana Right to Work Committee.

Jeff is a graduate of Ball State University.

About the Indiana Chamber Foundation

The Indiana Chamber Foundation, established in 1981, provides leadership through practical policy research to improve the state's economic climate. The Indiana Vision 2025 long-range economic development plan and recent studies focusing on competency-based education, Indiana's water supply and school counseling are products of the Foundation.

Contact Jeff at (317) 264-7544 or via email at jbrantley@indianachamber.com.