Appendix D. Estimation Method & Results

Our model is a straightforward exposition of the relationship between scale and educational outcomes, taking the form:

$$Q_i = \alpha + \delta_1 (ln(Z_i)) + XB + \epsilon_i$$

...Where the student outcome measure of school corporation i is a function of a common intercept, α , the natural log of enrollment, Z, the matrix of control variables X, a white noise idiosyncratic error term distributed identically and independently. The control variables X in the model include share of students in the free and reduced price lunch program, share of English language learners, share of special education students, share of African American students, share of white students, share of Asian students, share of multiracial students and share of Hispanic students. For the race variables Native American and Hawaiian/Pacific Islander are the omitted categories. This model is similar to the one used to estimate learning loss due to the pandemic. We use total enrollment as reported in the Indiana Department of Education enrollment counts for these models. Other variables are from the Indiana Department of Education or Indiana Commission for Higher Education.

We use a cross section model due to data limitations. The previous study, Devaraj, Faulk and Hicks (2017), included panel models. However, because of the pandemic and various other data limitations, we used cross section models in this analysis. The results largely support the findings of the 2017 study using panel models.
